Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

As I put my key into the keyhole, the door slid open, to my amazement, I saw that the kitchen light was on. I had left my house at about ten that morning and I could not explain why I might have left it on. It immediately dawned on me that someone had broken into the house and the first thing I thought of doing was to call on my neighbour Mr. Hassan.

As soon as we got into the hall, we found that everything was in a terrible mess. The armchairs were all overturned, two small tables lay turned over on the floor and the radio had been smashed. There could be no doubt that the burglar had left nothing untouched. Before going on to inspect the rest of the house, I called the police.

Then we went into my bedroom. All my clothes were thrown all over the bed and the floor. The bed cover had been removed and the mattress had been emptied of its feathers. The police officers arrived a few minutes later and made a thorough search and declared that the burglar must have been quite experienced for he had even ransacked the kitchen cupboards. I told the officers it would take me at least two day's hard work to sort out all those things and find out whether anything had been stolen. Fortunately, I never used to leave money in the house and the only thing that they could have taken would be my watch which I had left in the bathroom. We all went to the bathroom only to find the watch there. Mr Hassan remarked that burglars never imagined they could possibly find anything valuable in a bathroom.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Bringing up children is a complex process. The parents are the child's first educators. Every mistake they make in bringing up their children is a battle lost in the fight for a better future. Children should be armed with good qualities to become good citizens. The things that are most vital in the care of a child are a little bit different throughout the age periods. During the first year a baby needs a lot of motherly care. He has to be fed, he eats often, and his food is usually different from the adults. For his spirit to grow normally, he needs someone to dote on him, to think that he is the most wonderful baby in the world, to make noises and baby talk to him, to hug him and smile at him and to keep his company during wakeful periods.

In big families, children are not always given due care. A child is liable to be neglected by the mother because she is either busy or has many other children to care for. The infant whose mother can't take care of him during daytime needs individual care whether it is in his own home or someone else's who may be a relative, a neighbour or a friend whom the other knows and has confidence in. If a new maid or nurse is to come to the house; the mother should know her well before she leaves the baby in her care. Nearly all working mothers nowadays take their children to nurseries. Sometimes the nursery is no good for them. The care there is mechanical rather than warmhearted. There is too much risk of epidemics of colds and other infectious diseases.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. According to the passage, a child's first educators are ....
    - a) his teachers at school

Read the following passage, then answer the questions: 10

People have been writing about strange worlds and travelling to space for thousands of years. Parts of the famous Arabic story "One Thousand and One Nights" might be described as a kind of science fiction. But science reality started to influence how we all lived in the nineteenth century. This was a time when many exciting new things were invented: steam trains, the telephone, electricity, photographs and much more. The writer Jules Verne looked at nineteenth century technology and imagined how it could be improved to do amazing things. He wrote about people travelling to the centre of the earth, to the moon or deep under the sea. Many people consider Verne to be the first true science fiction writer. In 1895, the writer HG Wells saw technology differently. He wrote about the possible dangers of technology. His book includes "The Time Machine", in which the hero travels into a dangerous and unpleasant future. Other writers also thought that technology could be bad. "Aldous Huxley's Brave New World" is about a future in which people are produced in factories. But not all science fiction writers saw technology as bad. Authors such as Isaac Asimov often wrote about a future in which science can solve our problems.

Science fiction has evolved with technology. In the 1960s, space was being explored for the first time. This gave science fiction writers ideas for what explorers might find in space. Strange worlds and unexplained mysteries, such as in the novels of Arthur C. Clarke. More recently, many science fiction stories have been about robots. Could they become more intelligent than people? Should we use them or could they start to take over and rule the world? In science fiction, anything is possible.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17 In what way was Isaac Asimov different to many science fiction writers?
- a) He was optimistic about science.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Have you ever eaten ice cream on a hot day and suddenly felt a sharp pain in your head? If so, you had a very common experience that some people call a "brain freeze".

Brain freezes are caused when cold food or drink touches the roof of your mouth. Nerves in your mouth send a signal to your brain. Your brain then turns the signal into a sharp pain. However, the pain does not go to your mouth where the cold is. It stays in your head.

Most brain freezes last for less than 30 seconds. But if you want to make it go away quicker, you can try a couple of tricks. When you start to get a brain freeze, push your tongue against the roof of your mouth. This sometimes warms up your mouth so that the nerves don't send the signal that causes a headache. You can also try preventing brain freeze from the start by eating and drinking more slowly. If you take smaller bites or sips and wait longer between them, your mouth won't get as cold. Of course, sometimes a cold drink or an ice-cream cone on a hot day is just too good to enjoy slowly!

Brain freezes also occur when we have to present or perform in front of others but lack confidence - either in our ability to deliver the message or in the message itself (or both). This is called "stage fright". If you want to cure stage fright-and avoid the kind of brain freezes that happen when public speaking anxiety controls you, prepare for both what you're going to say and how you're going to say it.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. What causes a brain freeze?
    a) Eating too much ice cream or cold food.
    b) Eating something cold and then something warm.
    c) Cold food or drink touching the roof of your mouth.
    d) Eating cold food on very hot days.
18. According to the passage, which of these is a way to cure a brain freeze?
    a) Putting something warm on your tongue.
    b) Placing your tongue on the roof of your mouth.
    c) Eating cold things more quickly.
    d) Eating warm and cold foods together.
19. The underlined phrasal verb "go away" here means ....
    a) end b) continue c) last d) increase
20. The underlined pronoun "It" refers to ....
    a) brain b) cold c) mouth d) pain
21. Why does eating or drinking slowly help prevent brain freezes?
    a) Your mouth does not get as cold.
    b) Your brain cannot recognise what you are eating or drinking.
    c) The thing you are eating or drinking does not touch your tongue.
    d) The brain freeze does not last as long.
22. Which of these would probably NOT cause a brain freeze?
    a) Drinking a glass of cold soda quickly.
    b) Eating an ice-cream cone quickly before it melts.
    c) Chewing a lot of ice.

   a) when b) who c) which d) where

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Is there a famous person whom you really admire? Wouldn't you love to have his or her autograph? You would never throw that person's autograph away because of your admiration for him or her. However, some people collect autographs even from people they don't admire. They just want autographs from any famous person. Rather than collecting these autographs to keep, they collect the autographs to sell.

These days there are more than 20,000 people who collect autographs for the value the autographs might have in the future. Since these people are willing to pay a lot of money for an autograph. Autograph hounds now hang around sports centres, and concerts trying to get autographs they can sell. They can sometimes make as much as $1,500 for one autograph. In fact, there are also companies that buy and sell autographs. One company, Profiles in History, says it has the largest collection of autographs in the world, and earns more than $12 million a year!

The price of an autograph depends on how rare the autograph is. For example famous people like Angelina Jolie and George Clooney sign a lot of autographs. Therefore, their autographs are not rare and are not worth very much money.

On the other hand, Madonna and Nicole Kidman rarely sign anything. This makes their autographs rarer and more valuable. Queen Elizabeth II almost never signs autographs, therefore, something with her signature on it might sell for around $3,500. It doesn't matter if the person is dead. Elvis Presley and Napoleon signed many things. Their signatures are only worth $1,500. However, signed letters from Marilyn Monroe are very rare. They can cost $50,000 each. The highest price ever paid for an autograph was $750,000 for a letter written and signed by the American president Abraham Lincoln.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. What is the main idea of the reading?
    a) Collecting autographs is fun.
    b) Signature of Queen Elizabeth II.
    d) Some autographs are rare.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions: 10

People think children stay healthy while playing with others. However, playing sports can have negative effects on children. It may produce feelings of poor self-esteem or aggressive behavior in some children.

Many researchers believe adults, especially parents and coaches, are the main cause of too much aggression in children's sports. They believe children copy aggressive adult behavior. Parents and coaches are powerful teachers because children usually look up to them. Often they behave aggressively themselves, sending children the message that winning is everything. At children's sporting events, parents may yell insults at other players or cheer when their child behaves aggressively. Moreover, children may be taught that hurting other players is acceptable, or they may be pushed to continue playing even when they are injured. Moreover, the media makes violence seem exciting. Children watch adult sports games and see violent behavior replayed over and over on television.

As a society, we really need to face up to this problem and do something about it. Parents and coaches should act as better examples for children. They also need to teach children better values. They should teach children to enjoy themselves whether they win or not. Winning is not everything. In addition, children should not be allowed to continue to play when they are injured. Sending a child with an injury into a game gives the child the message that health is not as important as winning, if we make some basic changes, children might learn to enjoy sports again.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

Rules are of extreme importance to all of us. Some people get bored or object to one rule or another, but no one can deny that life would be impossible without rules. Traffic rules are among the most important in modern life. When you drive your car, there are many rules to follow. Your car has to be in a good condition. You have to check the amount of petrol in your car; otherwise, it may stop suddenly in the middle of a crowded street causing you a lot of trouble. It is really essential that you adjust the mirror to be sure that no one is parking behind you. Don't forget to measure the level of oil in your engine and be sure the battery is working properly. The tyres should be checked before moving. If you neglect that, you will have to face the trouble of changing the flat tyre by yourself. If you don't check your wipers, you will be sorry. It might rain suddenly and spoil your trip. You have to check the brakes also or you will bang against the first tree in front of you. Don't forget to fasten your seat belts or you'll pay a fine. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Trees are beautiful and useful gifts of nature. They are great friends of man. Trees give us flowers, fruits, timber, bamboo, fuels, etc. We can rest under the cool shade of a tree. We get wood from the trees to make furniture, doors, windows, etc. Trees are also a great source of materials for paper, rubber, gums, herbs and medicine plants. Forests bring clouds and cause rainfall. Trees prevent soil erosion. They protect us from severe weather. Trees are a part and parcel of earthly life. All life directly or indirectly owes its existence to them. Trees release oxygen which we need for our life. They also absorb carbon dioxide gas. Many living species live in trees. Trees form the natural habitat of many animals, birds and insects. Trees help make the land fertile. We get good crops out of fertile land. They are the sources of the fruits and flowers. They offer us cool shade during summer. During rainy season, we take shelter under trees. Trees and plants are the sources of many life-saving drugs. They prevent land erosion and guard us against pollution. Thus, trees keep up the ecological balance. Trees protect us from inclement wind, too. Seeds, nuts and fruits are food sources for humans and animals.

Trees protect the biodiversity of the ecosystem. Tree resins are used in producing varnishes. Essential oils derived from trees are used in medicinal and aroma industry. Thus, trees play an important role in our life. Felling of trees disturbs the eco-system. We should preserve trees and plants with great care.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Mona packed a small suitcase, said goodbye to her mother and hurried out of the house to catch the bus to the station. There was no one else waiting at the bus stop, so it looked as if a bus had just left. Mona looked at her watch anxiously, she did not have much time to spare, even if a bus came along at once. Just then a taxi came slowly down the road. Mona knew that the fare to the station was at least two pounds, which was more than she could afford; but she quickly made up her mind that it would be well worth the extra expense in order to be sure of catching her train. So she stopped the taxi and got in. She told the driver that she had to catch a train which left at half past two. The man nodded and said that he would take a short cut to get her to the station in good time. All went well until, just as they were coming out of a side street into the main road that led to the station, the taxi ran into a car. There was a loud crash and Mona was thrown forward so violently that she hit her head on the front seat. Both drivers got out and began shouting at each other. Mona got out as well, to ask them to stop quarrelling, but neither of them took notice of her at all. She was wondering what to do when a bus came into sight, going in the direction of the station. The bus stop was not far off, so Mona got her suitcase out of the taxi and ran towards the bus, which had stopped to let some passengers get off. The bus conductor saw her running and did not ring the bell for the bus to start until she had got on. Mona reached the station just in time and managed to catch her train after all. But if she had waited for the taxi driver to stop arguing, she would probably have missed it.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. Mona took a taxi because ....

Read the following passage, then answer the questions: 10

A small crowd had gathered around the entrance to the park. His curiosity aroused, Robert crossed the road to see what was happening. He found that the centre of attraction was an old man with a performing monkey. The monkey's tricks, he soon discovered, were in no way remarkable so, after throwing a few pennies in the dirty hat which the man had placed on the pavement, Robert began to move off, along with other members of the crowd. At this point the man suddenly let out a loud cry. Everyone turned to see what had happened. The man was bending over his monkey, which now lay quite still on the pavement. He picked up the apparently lifeless body and, holding it close to him, began to weep. A young man stepped forward from the crowd and, taking some money from his pocket, dropped it into the hat. Robert and several other people did likewise, until the pennies in the hat were covered with silver coins. Meanwhile, the man continued to hold the dead monkey in his arms and seemed to take no notice of what was going on around him. A few months later, Robert came across the old man again in another part of the city. The man had a monkey, bought no doubt with the money which the crowd had given him. It did not, however, seem any better at its tricks than the previous one. Robert was pleased to see that the old man was still able to earn a living, though on this occasion, having partly paid for the monkey out of his own pocket, he did not feel inclined to throw any money into the hat. But the performance was not yet over! Once again, the old man let out a loud cry. Once again, the monkey lay still on the pavement. The man picked up the "dead" monkey and clutching it in his arms began to weep. The same young man stepped forward and threw some money into the hat. Again, the crowd followed suit – except for Robert. Smiling to himself, he went on his way, amazed at the man's audacity.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. The monkey owner was ....
    a) a trickster b) honest c) sincere d) honourable
18. The writer saw the performance of the man and the monkey ....
    a) thrice b) once c) twice d) one time
19. Robert did not throw any money into the hat the second time because ....
    a) there was enough money in it already
    b) he had seen the monkey's tricks before
    c) the monkey's tricks were not very good
    d) he knew that the monkey was not really dead
20. The word "likewise" means ....
    a) the sensible thing b) the same thing
    c) willingly d) more or less the same
21. The monkey owner earns his money through the monkey's performance and also .... people.
    a) tricking b) admiring c) begging d) encouraging
22. Robert thought that the man bought the monkey with ....
    a) his own money
    b) the money he saved from his work
    c) the money the crowd had given him
    d) no money
23. The underlined pronoun "it" refers to ....
    a) the man's money b) the dead monkey

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

It is a disturbing fact that many different wild animals throughout the world are in danger. The reasons for this are many and varied, but we must blame pollution, pesticides, the disturbance of the animal's natural environment and man's greed. Industry has grown enormously, and it has become common practice for factories to dispose of waste matter in streams, canals and rivers, causing great loss of river life. Modern agricultural methods include using pesticides, which effectively control insects classified as pests, but which also destroy many that are not.

An increase in population has meant more buildings, more vehicles, more pollution ... and with it the destruction of much of the countryside that provides shelter for wild animals. To satisfy man's selfish desires, the polar bear in North America is under threat because it is hunted by sportsmen; whales are killed worldwide for the oil and food they yield. These are only a few of the species under threat. But the problem is receiving worldwide recognition, and some action is being taken. For example, pollution in the River Thames has been greatly reduced; trading in some furs has been forbidden; and organisations like "Friends of the Earth" do valuable work in this deserving cause.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. It has become common practice for factories to dispose of their waste in streams and rivers. This means that factories ....
    a) deliver their waste to streams, canals and rivers
    b) get over their waste in streams, canals and rivers
    c) get rid of their waste in streams, canals and rivers
    d) store their waste in streams and rivers

b) Polar bears in danger
c) Whale oil
d) Fresh water pollution

21 Why are many whales hunted all over the world?

a) For their skin.
b) For the fat they produce.
c) For the oil and food.
d) For their feathers.

22 Why is the polar bear in North America under threat?

a) Because of pollution.
b) Because sportsmen hunt it.
c) Because of the waste matters in rivers.
d) Because of insects and pests.

23 Many different wild animals are in danger because of ....

a) man's greed

Read the following passage, then answer the questions: 10

You've seen restaurant reviews in newspapers, magazines or on the Internet. People read these reviews when they want to know about the quality and price of the food at a restaurant. But who writes these? Who gets paid to eat? Those lucky people are food critics.

Food critics are journalists who eat at restaurants and write reviews that give readers the feeling that they have visited the restaurant themselves. The articles almost always include a description of the restaurant, for example, whether it is nicely decorated or has a beautiful view of the ocean. The menu, prices, and service are generally described as well, but a food critic's main task is to write about their opinion of the food. Food critics may tell readers about the colours of fresh vegetables, or the pleasant aroma of a perfectly cooked chicken. They will mention whether they were listening to soft music while they ate or the noises of pots and pans being washed in the restaurant's kitchen and most importantly, they will describe the taste of every dish on the table, starting with the appetizer and ending with the dessert. Every detail of the meal is important.

All of this may sound easy enough, but food critics do face some challenges. First, food critics must be excellent writers. Their job is to give accurate information in an entertaining way. It is also important for food critics to be very observant by nature, and to have an excellent memory, since taking notes at the table is not something typical customers do. Food critic Ruth Adams, former editor-in-chief of a well-known magazine, used to go to restaurants wearing disguises so that she received the same food and service as any other diner. Despite the challenges, a career as a food critic appeals to many people.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17 Food critics are ....
a) restaurant owners b) magazine cooks
c) professional poets d) professional writers

18. Which of the following would probably NOT be included in a restaurant review?
    a) a description of a restaurant's atmosphere
    b) information about a restaurant's rent and taxes
    c) information about a restaurant's prices
    d) a description of a restaurant's food
19. The purpose of paragraph 3 is to show that it is a very .... job being a food critic.
    a) difficult b) trivial c) easy d) boring

    a) focus on the negative
    b) must listen carefully to the waiters
    c) focus on the positive
    d) pay attention to every single detail
21. According to the passage, food critics need a good memory because ....
    a) they have to avoid taking notes at the table
    b) they have very busy schedules every day
    c) they like having a challenging job
    d) they need to remember which restaurants they have been to
22. Ruth Adams went to restaurants wearing disguises because she didn't want ....

Read the following passage, then answer the questions: 10

Most people know that the first man on the moon was Neil Armstrong in 1969. However, since that time, the moon has been visited by eleven other men but they are not so famous. Who were these other space pioneers?

In 1969, four months after Neil Armstrong and his colleague Buzz Aldrin stayed on the surface of the moon for 21 hours, Alan Bean and Pete Conrad spent two days there. Bean is also an artist, and is the only person on earth who is able to paint space scenes that he had actually seen. In 1971, Alan Shepard and Edgar Mitchel went on a mission to study earthquakes on the moon (known as moonquakes). Shepard also enjoyed a game of golf there: because there is very little gravity, he hit the ball farther than any professional golf player on earth!

Seven months later, two more astronauts stayed for nearly three days on the moon. David Scott and James Irwin took along a special vehicle which meant they could travel around. They returned to earth with many moon rocks. In 1972, John Young and Charles Duke landed in the moon's mountains for the first time.

The moon was last visited at the end of 1972. Eugene Cernan and Harrison Schmitt explored the moon for three days, longer than any other astronaut. Schmitt was a geologist before he became an astronaut and he did a number of scientific experiments there. Before they returned to earth, Cernan wrote his daughter's name on the moon's surface. There is no weather on the moon, so he knew that there was nothing that would wear the letters away. They are probably there today! There are now plans to get astronauts to visit the moon again, although nobody knows when this might be.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. Why are Alan Bean's paintings special?
    a) They were painted on the sea.
    b) They were painted in space.
    c) He is the only artist who has seen the space.
    d) You can only see them on the moon.
18. Why is it likely that you can still read the name of Eugene Cernan's daughter on the moon today?
    a) The letters are very big.
    b) The letters were written in rocks.
    c) There isn't air there.
    d) His colleague was a geologist.
19. Why do you think that some of the astronauts played golf and wrote names on the surface of the moon?
    a) They were very important experiments.
    b) They wanted to have fun.
    c) Scientists on earth got them to do these.
    d) They behaved badly.
20. Why do you think that astronauts were sent to the moon?
    a) To punish them.
    b) To do scientific experiments.
    c) To test weightless sports.
    d) To test zero-gravity living.
21. What does the underlined word "They" refer to?
    a) The astronauts.
    b) The spaceships.
    c) The moon's weather.
    d) The letters on the surface.
22. What do you think the word "vehicle" means?
    a) Something used to carry people or thing on the Earth

    a) It is rainy on the moon.
    b) It is sunny on the moon.
    c) It is fine on the moon.
    d) There is no weather on the moon.
24. What was Alan Shepard and Edgar Mitchel's mission on the moon?
    a) get information about moon rocks
    b) get information about moon volcanoes
    c) get information about moonquakes
    d) get information about moon weather

25 The journeys to explore the moon lasted for nearly ....

a) 30 years b) 9 years c) 3 years d) 52 years

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

When you cut your skin, you bleed. Everyone knows that. If a person loses a great deal of blood, he will become ill and may die. At one time people drank blood to make them strong. When doctors understood how blood went around inside the body, they tried ways of giving blood to people who needed it. They used a rubber tube to take blood from healthy people and give it to people who needed it. This is called blood transfusion. The blood went through a rubber tube from the arm of the healthy person into the arm of the sick person.

But there were two problems. First it did not always work. Sometimes people died. Later, doctors found the reason for this. We do not all have the same kind of blood. There was another problem. To give blood of the right kind, the doctors had to find a person of the right blood group. Often, they could not find a person in time.

If they had a way to keep the blood until someone needed it, they could always have the right kind of blood. In the end, they found a way of keeping blood for a very long time. Now people can give or donate blood every three months, if they want to. The blood is put in bottles and then kept until someone needs it.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

If you use the internet (and these days who doesn't), you should be aware of the risks you face and how to prevent being a victim of identity theft. There are people out there who are scanning the internet to find names, addresses and credit card numbers that they can use to take something that isn't rightfully theirs. These are a few tips that can help make you a safer internet shopper.

First, only use your credit card with a trusted website: this means that you should normally stick to reputable companies whose names you recognise, and who have also been doing business for some time. If you don't recognise the company name, there are various lists and verifications provided by independent organisations involved in keeping internet shoppers secure. Check these out if you're not sure before providing your credit card information.

Second, make sure the website uses appropriate encryption technology: even if the web company itself isn't trying to rip you off, there are people out there who are watching and who can still do harm if they intercept your card number. If the connection you are using is not secure, think twice before shopping:

Third, check your credit card statements each month: even small irregularities will sometimes mean that something is wrong. Thieves will sometimes use your card to make a small purchase to see if you will report this to your credit card company. If you don't, they will then make a much larger purchase.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17 Why should you use only websites with up-to-date encryption technology?

a) Because other sites might try to help you.

b) Because Mark Zuckerberg is watching you.

c) Because criminals might be able to decode communication sent to other sites.

d) Because cheques are the only acceptable form of payment.

18 What is NOT given as an example of a website that may make it unsafe to make a purchase from?

a) One which does not have verification from an independent organisation.

b) One which doesn't accept credit cards.

c) One which doesn't use proper encryption.

d) One whose company name you do not recognise.

19 Why does this article suggest you check your monthly credit card statement carefully?

a) Because thieves may make a small purchase as a test.

b) To prevent overspending.

c) To make sure your kids aren't using your card behind your back.

d) To verify the number is correct.

20 Why are criminals scanning the Internet, according to this article?

a) To steal companies' products.

b) To overcharge your credit card.

c) To get address and other personal information.

d) To steal your computer files.

21 When shopping online, a person should ....

a) be careful
b) not use trusted websites
c) make only small purchases.
d) use a fake name

22 How much does it cost to get a credit card?

a) Ten thousand pounds.

b) Twenty thousand pounds.

c) Credit cards are free.

d) This is not mentioned in the passage.

23 A word that is closest in meaning to the underlined word "rightfully" is ....

b) lastly

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The police find most criminals because somebody tells them who the criminals are. They find other criminals by using science and computers. When there is a bank robbery, the police first look through their computers for the names of bank robbers they know. Then, they go and talk to any of these robbers who are not in jail.

They ask them where they were at the time of the robbery. If any of these people cannot give a good answer, the police often use science to find out if one of them is the robber. Many criminals leave something of themselves at the place of the crime, like dirt or animal hair. If they leave behind some of their blood or a hair or a piece of skin, it will have their DNA inside it.

Everyone's DNA is different in the same way that their fingerprints are different. Therefore, if a criminal cuts himself/herself during a robbery or leaves a hair, or even a small piece of skin, scientists can find out what his/her DNA is. The police can then ask the person they think is the robber to give them one of his/her hairs or some blood and see if it has the same DNA. Many criminals are in jail today because of this kind of evidence.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

17. To find criminals, the police use ....
    a) computers b) science c) detectives d) a, b and c
18. In case of robbery, the police firstly suspect the robbers .... jail.
